Mrs. Gower's Effort to Collect Life Insurance Reveals Life Story of Husband.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] lowing a sensational announcement here a week ago that a woman giving her name as Mrs. Charles Gomer was in Washington endeavoring to collect name as Mrs. Charles Gomer was in Washington endeavoring to collect history has developed. Mr. Gomer, who has been living in Salisbury, an unusual life story has developed. Mr. Gomer, who has been living in this city since 1900 was once a prominent Assemblyman of the State of New Jersey, being a member of the Logislature of that State for several years. He was well known in political circles twenty-ney years ago, and his name was also prominent in business circles. In the winter of 1889 he left home without telling his wife good-by, and never returned. He was mourned as dead for a number of years, and it was only recently that Mrs. Gomer tried to collect the life insurance supposedly due her.

For seven years Mr. Gomer has reowing a sensational announcement her.

For seven years Mr. Gomer has resided in Sallsbury, all the while keeping his life story a secret. Being a skilled mechanic he found lucrative emskilled mechanic, he found lucrative employment until he became totally blind, and for some years he has been dependent upon friends for support. To intimate friends he has told everything, and admits that he is the husband of the woman in Washington trying to collect the insurance upon his life. Application has been made to have him admitted to the Rowan county home, which it is expected will be the closing chapter to his remarkable career.
